CONGRESS ADJOURNS.

Review of Work Accomplished During Session.

Most Remarkable in History for Strenuous Times In Many Respect.

Washington, D. C. June 25.—With the adjournment of Congress, a brief review of what legislation has been accomplished will be in place, and it will be found that the record of the present Congress has seldom, if ever, been excelled in the number and in the importance of the bills passed. Thirty-six thousand bills were offered during the session—twenty-seven thousand by the House and nine thousand by the Senate, to say nothing of hundred of resolutions on a variety of subjects. In no previous session have so many bills been presented.

With reference to those reform movements which have become known as the bills of the President's program, there are many instances of accomplishment.

Perhaps first in importance is the establishment of postal savings banks.

Then a revision of the railroad laws involving the creation of a commission court.

The admission of the states of New Mexico and Arizona as separate states, raising the number of sovereign states in the Union to forty-eight.

A very important bill was that giving to the President unlimited authority to withdraw public lands for conservation purposes. Under this act the President was granted power to withhold lands from settlement and to conserve the water power, and at the same time the act provided for the agricultural entry of coal lands which will open to settlement. It is said, as much as sixty million acres, reserving at the same time the coal right to the government.

The increase of the Navy, while not including many ships of the first-class, was significant in the fact that there were appropriations for two battleships of 27,000 tons each. These are to be armed with 14-inch guns, which it is said will make them more formidable than any battleship on the seas. There were appropriations also for four torpedo-boat destroyers, two colliers and four submarines, and an increase of three thousand seamen was provided for in the bill.

The publicity campaign bill is considered of great importance in that candidates must within a short time after election publish the amount of campaign contributions.

A bill authorizing an appropriation of twenty millions in certificates of indebtedness to continue reclamation project was passed.

Also a bill creating a Bureau of Mines.

A bill appropriating $250,000 for the support of a tariff board was another of the President's bills that had much opposition before it was finally passed.

Bills looking to the suppression of traffic in white slaves, providing a new tariff system for the Philippine Islands, promoting prohibition in the Hawaiian Islands, creating a commission to consider economics in the management of the national government, were other important enactments.

$300,000 was appropriated for the raising and removal of the wrecked battleship Maine in Havana Harbor, Cuba.

Among the measures which failed to pass, although it was well known that the President favored them, was a ship subsidy bill; an anti-injunction bill; a bill for a new form of government in Alaska and also in Panama; also bills to create a bureau of health; providing increased rates of postage for second-class mail matter and to establish the Appalachian Forest Reserve.

Taken all in all, this has been a remarkably strenuous Congress, and there is no doubt but that a record has been set which will be a stimulating example to succeeding Congresses. Apart from the reformative and progressive legislation above referred to, there has been a to Congress has in a conspicuous way reformed itself as a deliberative and parliamentary body. It has taken power from the Speaker, it has reformed its system of conducting business, and its organization for work is more effective now than it was at the beginning of the session. The Speaker has been removed from the Committee on Rules and a new rule has been adopted which, it is thought, will prevent withholding bills by committee when such bills have the approval of the majority of the House without regard to party.

$100,000 Damage by Cloud-burst.

Lexington, Ky., June 28.—Cloudburst in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky last night caused damage estimated at $100,000, swept dwelling from their foundations, destroyed considerable standing timber. So far as can be learned to-day no lives were lost.

The storms vented their greatest fury in Floyd and Knott counties. The creeks became torrents in a few minutes, raged through the gullies and swept away everything in their paths. Great tree trunks borne on the swift currents, rammed into dwellings on the banks, demolishing the structures.

With the first roar of the streams the mountain folk abandoned their cabins and fled to the hills. Those who hesitated had narrow escapes, but it is believed that no deaths resulted. Several score families lost all their possessions.

RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT THIRD NATIONAL BANK.

John J. McHenry to Resume Law Practice at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., June 29.—John J. McHenry resigned as president of the Third National Bank at a meeting of the directors of that institution held yesterday afternoon, and his resignation was accepted. A. S. Rice, who has been connected with the institution since last September in the capacity of active vice president, was chosen at the meeting yesterday as acting president. It is likely that he will be elected president of the bank at the next meeting of the directors.

The resignation of Mr. McHenry did not come as a surprise yesterday, as he had been intimating for some time that he desired to return to the active practice of law. He is already a member of the law firm of Burnett McHenry, Batson & Carey, and practiced law successfully for twenty years before he became identified with the Third National Bank. He had been associated in the practice of law at different time with Judge James P. Gregory and Judge Geo. DuRelle. The holdings of Mr. McHenry in the Third National Bank, it is understood, will pass to another.

Mr. McHenry has been president of the Third National Bank since the winter of 1907. During his administration the bank has prospered the capital stock having increased since 1907 from $200,000 to $300,000.

A. S. Rice, who is now acting president of the bank, has had wide experience. He came to Louisville from Cynthiana the first of last September. He has been successful as a banker. For some time he was connected with a bank in Cincinnati.

At Mr. McHenry's home last night it was stated that he had gone to the country and would not return to Louisville before Thursday morning.

Lawn Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hurt gave the young folks of Sulphur Springs a party Saturday night. Games of various kinds were played, refreshments were served and the guests did not depart until a late hour. Those present were as follows: Misses Christine Canon, of Drakesboro, Elton Huff, Judelle Bean, Mercedes Canon, Dee King, Ora Midkiff, Myrtle Canon, Ruth and Eva Forman, Pearl Stevens, Mae Forman, Minnie and Maggie Wedding, Archie Taylor, Eula Huff, Garner and Martin Johnston, Messrs. Otto Huff, Otto Stevens, Bernice and Combie Nabor, Willie Russell Acton, Felix Brown, Parvis and Marvin Midkiff, Jesse Huff, Rose and Roy Flinn, Emmett Taylor, Homer Huff, Jesse Kuykendoll and Lendrum Forman of Owensboro, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Huff, Mrs. Minnie Johnston, L. W. and J. O. Forman.

KLU-KLUXING AT CALHOUN.

People Very Indignant At Act of Young Men.

Band Boy Who Saw Calhoun Girl
Home Severely
Whipped.

Calhoun, Ky., June 28.—The inquiry by County Judge Higgs into the klu-kluxing of young Henry Reep, a member of the Newburg, Ind., brass band, at this place last Friday night, has resulted in involving young men of some of the best families in Calhoun. There was a dance at the armory last Friday night. Several members of the band were present, who did not participate in the dance, but spent the evening by passing the time in company with young ladies present who did not dance. When the boy was over young Reep accompanied Miss Lula Glenn to her home.

On his return to the hotel where he was staying he was assaulted by a party of five or six young men, the evidence of witnesses differing as to the number.

They were all strangers to Reep, and he could not give the officers the names of his assailants.

At the Masonic barbecue, in the Ballantine woods, just below Calhoun, on Green river Reep pointed out three young men who he said were in the party which assaulted him. The officials at once began a thorough investigation, resulting in an inquiry before Judge Higgs to-day.

The evidence has not yet been finished, but enough has been heard to implicate four young men. They are James Glenn, son of the marshal at Calhoun, and a cousin of Miss Lula Glenn; Will Muster, son of J. W. Muster, ex-marshall of Calhoun; Winston Hobson son of Mr. C. E. Hobson; and Stiles Owen, son of Mr. J. N. Owen. The evidence has brought out the names of the four mentioned, but is stronger against Glenn and Muster than the other two.

It is thought that the assault is due to the fact that one of the boys was jealous of the attentions of Reep to Miss Glenn, and that he secured a few friends and waylaid Reep, and gave him a thrashing.

The Newburg band came to Calhoun to play for the Masonic barbecue Saturday, and were here as the guests of the Masons, and they feel outraged over the treatment accorded one of their guests. There is a disposition on the part of many to drop the case, but the Masons and their friends insist on going to the bottom of the affair and a prosecution of the guilty.

This feeling to prosecute in the present case is largely due to former klu-klux acts. Reep is not the first young man to be whipped here, said to be due always to the jealousy of some young man, and the people are tired of this kind of conduct. The feeling is such that they have determined to put a stop to it.

The charge against those against whom the warrants will be taken will be breach of the peace.

Court Notes.

Circuit Clerk, E. G. Barron has received notice from Judge T. F. Birkhead to the effect that the motion for a new trial in the case of Smith against the Broadway Coal Mining Company, a suit for the establishment of a public road, has been overruled. It is not probable that any further steps will be taken by the Coal Company and that the road will be opened in the near future. This has been a long drawn out proceeding, having been appealed from an order of Circuit Court establishing the road.

Judge R. R. Wedding has sustained the motion of the defendant, G. M. Maddox and granted him a new trial in the case of the Commonwealth against him wherein he was tried, found guilty and fined $100 for assaulting his sister-in-law, Mrs. Viola Maddox. The case is now set for trial Tuesday July 19th.

The prosecution of W. S. Allen on a charge of obstructing a passway was heard in County Court last Saturday.

and resulting in a hung jury, three being for conviction and three for acquittal. This is rather an unusual case as the road which is alleged to have been obstructed and which he admits he did obstruct is one which is established by prescription which is by long use as a matter of right by the parties complaining. The case is set for trial, Tuesday, July 19th.

Two warrants were issued Tuesday for Marshal Duggin on affidavit of William Young, one of which charges him with destroying tobacco plant bed another with having injured and destroyed growing corn of Young. Back of this alleged infraction of law is a case in Circuit Court wherein Duggin is claiming a portion of what Young thinks is his land and about which litigation has long been pending the case at one time having gone to the Court of Appeals where Young's contentions we are informed were sustained. Duggin however still contends that the land is his and this is why he destroyed the plant bed and corn growing thereon.

BOWLING GREEN NO LONGER "DRY" CITY

Advocates of High License Win Victory After Stubborn Contest.

Bowling Green, Ky., June 28.—Bowling Green voted for high license to-day by a majority of 87. The result to end one of the most bitterly contested local option elections ever waged in Kentucky.

The day began in a drizzling rain, but this did not dismay the women, who began arriving as early as 5 o'clock to participate in the vote on the local option question. The skies cleared about 9 o'clock and all Bowling Green went out and took a hand in the scrap. Bowling Green voted dry three years ago, and the result to-day overturns the verdict then expressed.

The majority then was 228 for prohibition. Today's result shows 87 majority for high license, thus being the platform of the anti-prohibitionists.

James Hendricks and Henry Stovall, workers for the "wets," were arrested early in the day charged with attempted bribery. Later W. F. Toops, one of the dry leaders, was arrested on a similar charge.

John Jackson, Mihue Lucas, Charles Johnson, J. M. Morse, L. N. Frost and J. H. Burch, who were registered at the special registration, June 14, were arrested to-day on a charge of illegal registration. It is alleged they live in Louisville.

Judge Henry B. Hines was arrested for alleged breach of the peace. A small boy charged the Judge with pushing him on the street. There is great rejoicing among the "wets" to-night.

CANTRILL

WINS RACE.

Defeats Thomas In Primary
by 3,000 Votes.

Burley Society Given Set Back In Attempt to Control Politics.

After one of the hardest fought and most sensational political campaigns ever waged in this section of Kentucky, Representative J. Campbell Cantrill of Scott county, was renominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Ashland district in Saturday's primary, defeating his opponent, State Senator Claude M. Thomas of Bourbon county, by the decisive majority of nearly 2,500 votes.

Cantrill carried six out of the eight counties of the district, including Franklin county, which his most ardent supporters had conceded to Thomas in the closing days of the campaign.

Official returns from all the counties of the district were not obtainable Saturday night, owing to messenger telegraph and telephone connection with some isolated precincts in counties off the railroad like Owen, but where the official figures are missing the reported vote is given, enabling the reader to form a pretty accurate estimate of the result.

Cantrill's home county of Scott was expected to give him a big majority but even his most enthusiastic supporters there did not look for such an indorsement at the hands of his people as he received.

"Sweet" Owen, Henry and Oldham, although strong tobacco counties, and loyal to the burley pool, helped to swell his plurality, while Fayette county, seemingly forgetting the treatment of Hon. W. P. Kimball at the hands of Cantrill and his lieutenants two years ago, wheeled into line for the Scott county man with a majority of nearly 500.

Senator Thomas' home county stood nobly by him, rolling up an even larger majority for her favorite son than Scott did for Cantrill. Woodford county, which is in the same judicial district with Bourbon joined her sister in support of Thomas with a majority of about 350. But this encouraging showing availed little, while the Thomas strength in other counties failed to go to the polls. There is no question but what the stay-at-home vote badly crippled Senator Thomas.

This was particularly true in Lexington, where his vote fell far short of the expectation of his managers. The returns show that only in two counties of the district, Scott and Bourbon did the full Democratic vote come out. In the other six counties only about a half vote was polled, nearly 6,000 Democrats based on the figures of the last election, failing to go to the polls.—Lexington Leader.

FRIDAY, JULY 1.

The attention of the Hartford Herald is called to the fact that corn is selling at 95¢ per bushel in Hartford, with the request that it answer whether or not this price is caused by the Payne-Aldridge tariff, or the failure of crop in this article in Ohio County last year.

We are glad to notice that an Ohio County man has succeeded to the National Presidency of the American Society of Equity. The recent resignation of C. O. Drayton as president brings Mr. M. F. Sharp into the presidency. Mr. Sharp is a man of ability and has the cause of equity at heart and we believe he will succeed in his new position.

We are indeed sorry that the Democratic congressional race in the Seventh District has developed even a suspicion that corrupt methods were used upon members of the legislature in order to secure a site for the new capitol building.

It has been the boast of Kentuckians that here at least was one state building which had been constructed, without taint of graft. However, if the charges which are made at Frankfort are true it was conceived in graft from the very foundation, and we will be rob'd of the pride which we had here tofore felt concerning this beautiful structure which, if charges be true is located upon its present site through the influence of most damnable corruption.

The Louisville Police and Detective force has again demonstrated to the world a new method for capturing criminals, and added to the already "enviable" (?) record made in the Kellner case. Last week the chief of detectives of Louisville was notified that Wendling, the suspected murderer, had been located in Texas. Immediately the fact was published in all the daily papers and a number of the force dispatched to Texas with a brass band, proceeded by a man with a fog horn, announcing that they were on their way to capture Wendling. Of course the guileless members of the detective force in Louisville fully expected Wendling to drive a stake in the prairie out in Texas and securely hitch himself, awaiting their arrival. However, he evidently had a different view of the matter and when he heard the band and fog horn, he folded his tent and silently stole away, while the detectives paraded the prairie with the band in search of him.

The nomination of J. Campbell Cantrell for Congress in the Seventh District last Saturday by a majority of about 3,000 is a just rebuke to the Burley Tobacco Society for going into politics. It is also a distinct victory for the American Society of Equity as Mr. Cantrell is the State President. The Burley Society has made every effort to keep the society of Equity out of the Burley District, and its enmity for this organization was no doubt one cause for the opposition which it made to Mr. Cantrell. We believe that Campbell Cantrell is an honorable man and that he has stood fearlessly by the farmers in their efforts to organize along lines which would give them protection from the trusts, and but for his assistance the Burley Society would not have been able to make its last stand. No one could now blame Mr. Cantrell for fighting the Burley Society and we trust and believe that he will make every effort to push the cause of Equity in the Burley District henceforth.

In a recent editorial, this paper took occasion to refer to the efforts of the city of Frankfort to retain the capitol for many years by winning an dining members of the legislature and the various constitutional conventions. However we did not intimate that anything corrupt had been resorted to. The editor of the Frankfort News took serious exception to our article and was followed by the Courier-Journal also in an editorial criticising us for even intimating that Frankfort was not all that is claimed for it. Since all this has happened one Mr. Noel, president of a bank in Frankfort, has given a deposition in which he charges that various citizens of Frankfort raised the sum of $2,500 to influence the selection of a site for the new capitol, and that this sum of money was paid to members of the legislature and that the selection of the site upon which the beautiful building now stands was brought about by the use of this money. It is up to the editor of the Frankfort News to have somebody indicted for criminal libel, or move his pure self out of such an atmosphere.

Our Democratic friends do not take such a rosy view of their chances in the coming election as they did a few weeks ago. The Republican party does not show so much division and discord as seemed to exist during the session of Congress just closed and besides our friends have discovered that they have troubles of their own. They still have W. J. Bryan on hands and he has served notice on them that he must be consulted about the nomination for President on the Democratic ticket next time. The Democracy of Ohio turned down Bryan's suggestion about the nomination of senatorial candidate and Mr. Bryan immediately made a bitter attack on Governor Harmon whom the democracy has fixed upon for the next nomination. Mr. Bryan has given every evidence that he will oppose Harmon to the bitter end and has already proceeded far enough with this in view to charge that Governor Harmon is not a friend of the people but that he belongs to the "interests." It is said that Bryan's friends in the State of Ohio will not make any extra efforts to secure Governor Harmon's re-election, knowing that if he wins he will be a large figure in the convention of 1912.

Unable to answer our suggestion about the articles mentioned in last week's issue of the Hartford Herald, which it had called attention to as being higher than before the passing of the present tariff law, either being placed upon the free list or materially reduced, that paper now says that the raise in duty upon other articles has had the effect to create higher prices for all articles. This is about the silliest argument that we have ever heard produced of all the silly arguments that generally float around concerning the tariff. If this statement is true, what an indictment the Hartford Herald would draw against members of its own party? It is a well known fact that the Democratic members in the south unanimously supported the high duties on sugar, rice, pine apples, cotton, peanuts and other articles in which the south is interested. It is also a well-known fact that the entire Kentucky delegation, democrats and all, supported a high duty on hemp. Now if the Herald's contention is true the duty on hemp has caused the raise in prices on shoes, gloves, rubber sandals and thoughtful readers who can not doubt see through its sophistry without further argument.

Congress has adjourned and will go down in history as one of the most remarkable sessions in many respects since the foundation of the government. The split in the Republican ranks has given the Democratic minority an opportunity to worry the majority in some respects, but notwithstanding this the administration has been able to put into law almost all of the policies outlined by President Taft at the beginning of the session is shown by the following comment on the resol: "I think the party in power has enacted legislation which will inure greatly to its benefit. It has kept its contracts. The Congress, which is now closing its first regular session, has done what it promised the people to do. And the Republican party has a good record to take to the people in the coming election." We trust the Presidents faith is well founded. While much of the legislation is new and to be tried out we believe that all of it is in the right direction and that future legislation if necessary will remedy whatever defects may be found to exist in the laws enacted. Among the most important of these laws is the new railroad rate regulation law, the postal savings bank law, the publicity of campaign funds and the law for the suppression of the white slave traffic. The admission of Arizona and New Mexico as states is an obligation which the party has redeemed. The greatest number of planks from promises have been redeemed with the President's term but half over.

W. O. W. HOLDS MEETING. Court House In Hartford Scene of Great Gathering.

On last Saturday evening, as had been announced, the Woodmen of the World held a greatly and initiation services at the courthouse in Hartford. During the afternoon Woodmen from various parts of the county began to arrive and by night more than three hundred members were here as visitors of the local camp. A parade was organized headed by Colonel J. H. Brewer, State manager of Louisa, and District manager, Thomas C. Ellis, Owensboro. After marching through the principal streets of the town the parade disbanded at the courthouse door where the woodmen and many citizens of the town were addressed by Colonel Brewer on the objects and aims of the order. About thirty candidates were then initiated into the mysteries of the circle in a very imposing manner, the McHenry Degree team putting on the work. This team was headed by Mr. Henry Davis and others and is a fine body of men. The organization is growing rapidly in Ohio County as elsewhere in the country. It is the largest fraternal organization in the world and is known as the "Little Glat of the West." During the twenty years of its existence more than $50,000,000 has been paid out in death claims and monuments erected at the graves of departed brothers and the organization now has more than $12,000,000 in the fund set apart for the payment of death claims. It is believed that much good will come of the meeting here as a splendid impression was created and that the county will become very strongly organized as a result. Representatives were here from McHenry, Centertown, Heflin, Buda, No Creek, Olaton, Sunnydale, Taft and many other sections of the county.

The Young Voter of To-day.
Lafe Young of the Des Moines Capital very truthfully says that the lesson of the panic of 1893-97, caused by Democratic Tariff tinkering, is practically lost so far as its effect upon the young voters of the country is concerned.

The young man of to-day was a child when the Wilson-Gorman Tariff was enacted. He was not a producer during the panic. He was on the playground or in the public school. He knows nothing about the struggle man had in the days to keep their heads above water. He doesn't remember anything about the mortgage, the "old man" had to slap on his home or his stock of good in order to weather the gale. He does not recall the rigidly with which his mother pared down the household expenses and the luxuries of which the family was deprived. He was too young to pay attention to such matters. The Tariff is a joke to him or else it is a bore. He reads articles in Republican newspapers condemning the Tariff as graft, and he takes the editor's word for it and votes against the party which believes in Protection. If you get in an argument with him, he has the right to say, "I am not a voter." He will have to learn for himself. He is in business now and if he is a young farmer, $9 hogs and 75-cent corn look pretty good to him. The only thing that will jolt the low Tariff heresy out of his system is another Democratic revision of the Tariff schedules, followed by $4 hogs and 25-cent corn. When he finds the prices of everything he has to sell cut in two and discovers that he has to pay just as much for a suit of clothes or a pair of shoes as he ever did, he will sit up and take notice and do a little figuring on his own hook. He will come to the conclusion that he had better be willing to pay a little more to the other fellow for what he uses if he can get twice as much for what he has to sell. In our judgment, we are coming up against this very proposition of Tariff experimentation, and it will be up to the American farmer this fall to say whether he is satisfied with conditions as they are or is willing to take a chance at betterment of them by the Democratic party.—Manchester (Iowa) Press.

SENATOR DOUGLAS MCENERY SUCCUMBS.

Able Represented Louisiana at Washington Many Years.

New Orleans, June 28.—United States Senator Samuel Douglas McEnergy died at his home here this morning shortly before 10 o'clock.

Senator McEnergy arrived from Washington yesterday morning suffering from an attack of indigestion. He was placed in a carriage at the rail-road station and taken to his home in St. Mary street, where physicians were hastily summoned. The Senator rallied somewhat after being treated and showed marked improvement yesterday. Late last night his condition took a turn for the worse and early this morning he lapsed into unconsciousness.

Senator McEnergy was in his 74th year and his health has not been good for several years. The attack or indigestion weakened his condition and under the strain which attended the illness his heart action failed. At his bedside at the time were his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Phillips, of Monroe, La., his daughter Mrs. Warren B. Parks, and one of his sons, Charles P. McEnergy.

The funeral of Senator McEnergy will take place at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning and the interment will be in local cemetery. The funeral will be official, a telegram to this effect having been sent to-day to the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate at Washington.

Republican Appellate Court Committee.

R. B. Martin, chairman of the Ohio County Republican Committee has been notified by J. F. Taylor, chairman of the Second Appellate Court District Republican Committee that a meeting of said committee will be held at Horse Branch at 11 o'clock Saturday, July 9th for the purpose of calling a convention to nominate a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeal in this district. A meeting held at Leitchfield recently adjourned without having issued any call for a convention, the committee being equally divided upon the question as to whether or not a nomination should be made.

It seems now that there is no question but what a convention will be called and some good man put forward for this position. The district is not so overwhelmingly Democratic but that a good man will stand a splendid chance to win out in the November election and the Republican party should place a man in the field especially as the Democrats have not shown any disposition to make the judiciary non-partisan having gerrymandered this district since Judge Settle was elected eight years ago.

Cooling Milk

D. H. Ewing, one of the largest milk dealers of Louisville, Ky., has this to say on cooling milk:

"Some practical and economic way of cooling the milk on the farm as soon as it is drawn and then delivered to the city in this condition is highly needed. The longer we are in the business the more we are impressed with a low temperature. A practical and economical way to have milk chilled on the farm and delivered in this condition is a question not so easily solved. The conditions existing on almost every farm are different. There are some dairy farmers who realize the importance of putting up ice during the winter season, and they are then prepared to care for their product during the heated term. There are a great many, however, who fail to do this. The result is that their product reaches the market in rather bad condition. The ice crop in this State (Kentucky) is frequently a failure, as it was the past season, and the result is, that comparatively few have ice with which to handle their produce. Some few patrons are located near towns having ice factories and can supply their needs. The small factories, however, frequently charge prohibitive prices. We think if these small factories would sell their ice at a more reasonable price that a greater number would be induced to use it. It is our opinion that cooling can not be done without the use of ice. The dairy farmer really needs ice almost every day in the year. A great many have the idea that the milk does not need cooling in the winter season. We find, however, if we are to have a first-class producer, that the milk must be chilled as soon as it is drawn, both in winter and summer. We frequently have more trouble with sour milk during the winter months than in summer. We had a great deal of such weather the past winter.

"We have some patrons who get fairly good results with running water. We consider this the next best thing to ice. There are a few, however, who will secure the low temperature necessary with running water. The milk should be handled in small bulk. The water should be kept as high on the outside of the vessel as the milk on the inside. Some few patrons get fairly good results from the use of well water and changing it often. If it were possible for every farm handling dairy products to have an abundance of ice every day in the year, it would do more to improve the quality of the dairy products coming into the city than anything else. If all of the milk and cream was reduced to a temperature of 40 degrees F. or below before it was taken to the station, it would reach the city in very good condition without the use of refrigerators or cars. Or course, the refrigerator car would be of considerable advantage if we are to obtain an ideal product.

"Milk and cream should be chilled immediately after it is drawn or separated to a temperature of 50 degrees F. or below, and should not be allowed to go above this temperature if we expect an ideal product.

"We know that we have not solved this problem. If we could have given a satisfactory solution we should not have asked the question. To our mind the most important thing after cleanliness is low temperature. Comparatively few realize the importance of thorough cooling every day in the year."

In Memory.

Ida Aldene, daughter of J. D. and Maggie Taylor, was born March 16, 1910, and after a few days of intense suffering from Brain fever fell peacefully asleep in the arms of Jesus on May 29th. What a brief life—but what a world of memories to loved ones.

She was the joy of the family, but the Alwise God deemed her too fair and pure to dwell in this cold world of storms and sorrows, so He sent his angel band to take dear little Aldene back to that blessed land of everlasting sunshine and happiness where she will never be sick nor suffer any more.

Weep not, dear ones, for your darling babe is not in the cold, cold grave, but just over the River, beckoning with outstretched arms to father and mother to come. We cannot call Aldene back but some sweet day we can clasp her to our bosom again in that New Jerusalem.

"Sleep on sweet babe and take thy rest."

God called thee home, He thought it best."

"SPOTTY" WINGS LONG KNOWN AS

Kentucky's Shrewdest and Most Famous Criminals.

Could "Play Dead And Feigned an Incurable Disease For Nearly Two Years.

Now that there is so much talk of prison reform and that the new reformatory law is so soon to go into effect, it is interesting to know that there are between 400 to 500 convicts in the penitentiary at Frankfort who have done time before in a penitentiary in some other State, says the Frankfort News.

One who visits the prison casually or even if one is long associated there would not discover this fact. Col. E. E. Mudd, the warden of the Frankfort penitentiary, is fast becoming one of the most expert criminologists in the country and he has the reputation now of being one of the best prison men in the United States.

Col. Mudd says that the number of men known as professional criminals, pickpockets, safe-blowers, burglars and holdup men at present in the Frankfort penitentiary is pretty close to 500. This is surprising to nearly everybody who thought that most of the convicts were local murderers or thieves. The man who has been in a prison where they have the lock-step or had it when that prisoner was a convict there, is easily spotted as he can not help walking in the lock-step fashion when the line begins to move.
Col. Mudd has become so expert that he can nearly always spot a man who has been in the penitentiary before by simply watching his conduct and manner after he gets to the prison here.

The professional crook makes a good prisoner, Col. Mudd says, and he has no trouble with the men of that class as long as they are given decent treatment. But the warden says that if they are oppressed or poorly fed or badly treated they become dangerous.
Of course men of that class must always be watched carefully and closely for they are ready and willing to take a chance to escape if they can get away without hurting any body. Col. Mudd says that, contrary to the popular opinion, the professional criminal will not hurt anybody unless it is necessary to enable him to escape, when cornered except as a last resort, being wise enough to know that the consequences will be either hanging or lifetime in prison.

How the convicts are to be transferred to Eddyville and the convicts there brought back here is a problem that Col. Mudd and the prison officials will have to solve for the legislature did not make any appropriation for the railroad fare of the convicts in going to and from Eddyville and it is to be a costly trip, some five hundred or more men having to be taken both ways.

During a general discussion of convicts when several Kentucky prison officials were present in the office of the prison commission at the capitol, the other day, the history of "Spotty" Wing, as one of the most noted criminals in the country is called, was brought up. Spotty is the man who escaped from the Eddyville penitentiary by pretending to have hysteria for two years and then decamping as soon as he was placed in the hospital, from which place it was easy to escape.

A safe was blown near Smithland and the police there rounded up Spotty.
He was called Conroy then.
Shortly after his arrest John Grayot who was Commonwealth's attorney received a letter from the chief of police of Cincinnati, the late chief Bechtel identifying Conroy. He told Mr. Grayot not to pay any attention to anything the man did. "If he dies, don't bury him but send him to the penitentiary for he is not dead," wrote Bechtel.
He said that Conroy was able to do anything and could counterfeit almost any symptom or any disease and could die without being dead.

One morning, shortly before Conroy was to be tried at Smithland he seemed to be ill and physicians pronounced him dying. He was lying on his cot in a jail cell looking like he could not live twelve hours. Many of those who saw the man said that he could not live but a few hours and they wanted Mr. Grayot to have him removed from the jail. Pending the trial a detective from Cincinnati reached Smithland to identify the criminal.
He walked into the jail where Conroy was lying seemingly near death, took him over carefully and then said:

"Why Spotty Wing, you old scoundrel.
Up to the same old ticks are you? Get up from there and shake hands with me."

The apparently dying man rose from the cot, called the detective by name, shook hands with him and said:

"What in— are you doing here?
Are you after me?"

That ended Spotty's pretenses until he went to the penitentiary where he pretended to have an incurable disease and to be unable to walk or do anything for himself. He used crutches and one day in walking across the prison yard, which was slippery with sleet, his crutches slipped. Spotty did not give himself away but fell sprawling and lay helpless. He was picked up by the warden, who has been kicking himself ever since because at that very time Spotty was able to whip any man in the penitentiary and was no more ill than when he was convicted in Smithland. Nothing has been heard of him since he escaped from the prison.

A Timely Warning About Flies.

In every town and locality in the State many people have failed to heed the numerous warnings that have been issued against flies. Attention has been called to the fact that they are one of the most dangerous menaces to life and health with which mankind has to contend, being responsible for a large proportion of all cases of typhoid fever and diarrhoeal diseases of infants and many cases of tuberculosis and other contagious diseases.

They have caused thousands of deaths in Kentucky and will continue their work of destruction until housekeepers awaken to the fact and inaugurate a warfare that will result in nearly everybody who thought that most of the convicts were local murderers or thieves. The man who has been in a prison where they have the lock-step
or had it when that prisoner was a convict there, is easily spotted as he
can not help walking in the lock-step
fashion when the line begins to move.
Col. Mudd has become so expert that he can nearly always spot a man who has been in the penitentiary before by simply watching his conduct and manner
after he gets to the prison here.

The professional crook makes a good prisoner, Col. Mudd says, and he has no trouble with the men of that
class as long as they are given decent treatment. But the warden says
that if they are oppressed or poorly
fed or badly treated they become dangerous.
Of course men of that class
must always be watched carefully and
closely for they are ready and willing to take a chance to escape if they can get away without hurting any body. Col. Mudd says that, contrary to the popular opinion, the professional
criminal will not hurt anybody unless
it is necessary to enable him to escape, when cornered
except as a last resort, being wise
enough to know that the consequences
will be either hanging or lifetime in prison.

The fly season is at hand. Prompt action at this time may prevent many deaths during the summer and fall and a grave responsibility rests upon all health officers and other citizens.

An immediate and thorough cleaning of premises should be effected and further accumulations of filth avoided.
Stable manure should be kept in vats or boxes screened or covered or frequently sprinkled with lime or kerosene and should be removed at least once a week.

Gargage receptacles should be carefully covered and the contents sprinkled with unsaked lime or oil.

Privy vaults should be made fly-proof and their contents frequently sprinkled with lime.

In addition to the measures for the prevention of the breeding of flies, every effort should be made to prevent them from entering the house or having access to milk or other foods.

All doors and windows, especially those of the kitchen and dining-room, should be screened and ordinances to this effect should be enacted and enforced.

Flies should be especially kept away from the sick and if one is discovered in the sick room it should be killed.
Excreta and urine from the sick should be covered with fresh lime for an hour and then buried.

People who have cleaned their own premises should demand that their neighbors should do likewise and not neglect the Board of Health of any failure or refusals. It is important to remember that no house is safe unless every other one for a mile around is clean.
This applies especially to tenant's houses and negro quarters.

The raving of life and suffering will amply repay for all the trouble and expense.

fly will kill the man.—[From the Timely Counsel for Young Married People.

Marriage is the founding of a family, and on the permanence and security of the family depend the well-being of the nation. Therefore, when the bride steps over the threshold and enters her new home; when the husband for the first time sits down at the head of his table, it is as if a sacrament were celebrated.

The beginning of married life is so important as to be solemn. What a pity it is that too often the contracting parties enter on marriage with so slight a sense of its deep meaning and so little concern for its far-reaching consequences! The most obscure married pair may send far down the unknown future their traits and characteristics as children and children's children repeat them.

Fidelity is the corner stone of marriage; and the family exists in its perfection only there is good faith, unmarried and confidence unshaken by doubt in the sacred circle of the home.

Jealousy, suspicion and their evil brood poison the atmosphere of the family.

At the outset the young people who marry should resolve never to permit the sun to go down on their wrath.
Lovers fondly fancy that they will never have a quarrel; that no breath will ever undermine their walls; that they will not for an instant have even a misunderstanding.

Being subject to the infirmities that beset Adam's sons and Eve's daughter however, most youthful husbands and wives occasionally have little differences which need not amount to jars if they simply follow one rule:

Never go to sleep at night except in friendly harmony. If there has been a deferential to their husbands as they are bedtime. If either has said or done anything to wound the other confess and ask pardon before the head touches the pillow. Marriage must exemplify friendship's highest ideals, or else it will be a failure.

Husbands should be as courteous to their wives as to the wives and daughters of other men. Wives should be as differential to their husbands as they are to other men whom they meet in society.

Husbands and wives should respect each other's privacy. Married people, like other people, should knock before they enter a closed door. Even the most devoted wife may not always wish her husband to burst unannounced into her room, and the most adoring husband may prefer that his wife should tap at the door of his den before she walks in.

This precaution may be dubbed hul-lin by some old-fashioned readers, yet it is simply the perfection of graceful old-school courtesy.

Nagging on the part of a wife and fault-finding on the part of the husband are inexcusable and fatal performances.

Recriminations and jests that hide a sneer of a smile are shockingly out of place in marriage.

"It is the little rift within the lute That by and by will make the music mute."

A husband should not open his wife's letters, nor should she open his.
Because persons are married they have not given up the privilege of correspondence without curious cringing.

Money is a fruitful source of domestic misery. A wife should not have to ask for money, nor should her husband be stow it upon her.

The family income belongs to both The man earns it, the woman administers it. A husband pays the rent, buys the coal, settles the doctor's bills, pays the taxes carries on the outside management of the home.

A wife should keep strict housekeeping accounts, pay butcher, baker dressmaker, grocer, and dry goods bills. For this purpose she should have stipulated weekly or monthly allowance, so that she need not always be going to John for the milkman's or iceman's money, and that she needs not always explain what became of the dollar she had in her purse last Monday. Common sense and complete confidence insures good manners in family life.

The raving of life and suffering will amply repay for all the trouble and expense.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

A Queer Existance.

Both the medical and legal profession on the continent of Europe are keenly interested in the remarkable case of the Bohemian twin sisters, Blazek, one of whom, Rosa, recently became the mother of a boy. The sisters, who are known to the world as the successors of the famous Slamee twins, Chang and Eng, have the misfortune, like them, to be joined together, and there is speculation as to how the second girl, Josephine, is legally affected by the occurrence.
Hitherto the twins have been regarded in the eyes of the law as one subject. It is now asserted that this state of affairs cannot continue. Continental lawyers are enlarging upon Josephine's case, even going to the length of saying that she would be within her rights in demanding compensation for the inconvenience she was forced to undergo. One report says that she has quarreled with Rosa, and demands to be separated, no matter at what risk. In this, it is pointed out she still has the law on her side, the agreement of the second twin to such an operation is legally unnecessary.

Mentally the young women who are 32 years old, are as different as can be. Rosa is the prettier and more intelligent and vivacious. Her sister is of a quiet temperament and prefers to rest the greater part of the day.
The sisters don't always agree, but after a quarrel it is Rosa who invariably breaks the ice with her less amiable companion.

Through the same blood circulates through the two bodies, if one is ill the other is not necessarily so; indeed, at the time her child was born Rosa, the mother, had a temperature several degrees higher than that of Josephine. Often when one is out of sorts the other is perfectly well.

In direct opposition to this fact experiments on the twins have shown that if a drug is administered to one it acts on both. The operation of separating them, should this step be decided on, would not necessarily mean death to either of them. This was proved by Dr. Doyen, the Paris surgeon who separated the twins Radia and Dodee some years ago, the operation becoming imperative owing to the latter's state of health. The subsequent death of the twins was caused by tuberculosis.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

BANDITS

ROB TRAIN.

Hundred Passengers Part With Their Valuables.

Exact Amount That Robbers Obtained Has Not Yet Been Learned.

Ogden, Utah, June 27.—Three masked bandits held up the second section of Oregon Short Line train No. 1, northbound, leaving Ogden at 1:30 o'clock this morning at Second street, in the northern part of this city. All the passengers were relieved of their valuables and the express messenger was compelled to deliver the contents of his safe. The exact amount the robbers obtained has not been determined.

Two passengers and two trainmen were injured. The robbers drove to Second street from Ogden in a hasty. They stopped the train by placing railroad torpedoes on the track. When the engineer brought the train to a stop the head brakeman went forward to ascertain the cause of the delay, and was struck with a revolver by one of the robbers.

He was then taken, at the point of a gun, to the express car and compelled to call to the messenger to open the door. As soon as the door was opened one of the bandits crawled in and commanded the messenger to open the safe.

After rifling the safe, the robbers turned their attention to the coaches.

As they started for the coaches, Rear Brakeman N. B. Franklin was met as he was on his way forward. The bandits commanded him to halt, but he disregarded the order and two shots were fired at him. He then stepped aside and one of the bandits knocked him down. Franklin rolled into a ditch where he fainted unconscious. After seeing that he was not wounded he jumped up and ran three blocks to the home of Deputy Sheriff John Hutchens, whom he aroused and informed of the robbery. The deputy hurried to the scene, arriving just as the train pulled out for the north.

When Conductor Williams left the train he was covered by one robber and ordered back in a coach. While one desperado stood guard over Engineer Kirkwood the other two, with revolvers drawn, went through the train ordering each passenger to hand over his valuables. One woman, Mrs. J. H. Ball, was relieved of a pair of diamond earrings which were torn from her ears. A foreigner whose name was not learned, was assaulted by the robbers. The man did not understand what was going on and was brutally beaten with the butt of a revolver. After the train had been robbed, the bandits fired a fusillade of shots in the air to terrorize the passengers, got into their buggy and drove away.

Sheriff Wilson gathered a small posse and started in pursuit.

There were nearly 100 passengers on the train, everyone of whom lost something.

FILE TEST SUIT AGAINST INCREASE.

Additional Assessment Unfair, Say Two Property Holders of Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., June 29.—Seeking to resist payment of a 12 per cent increase in taxation on property in Jefferson county as provided by the State Board of Equalization last winter at Frankfort, two more suits were filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court yesterday by John A. Armstrong and Julius C. Hero. The defendants named in both cases are the same, and are Free Ray, Clerk of the County Court, and A. M. Emmer, Sheriff of Jefferson county.

Armstrong sets forth in his petition that he has two pieces of property, valued at $1,300 and $455, which will be effected by the raise. He states his property is listed at $1,480 and was raised to $1,657.60. Both petitions alllege the increase is made contrary to law.

It is claimed by both plaintiffs that they tendered the amount of taxes due on their property prior to the time the increase in the assessed value was made.

In character the petitions are a writ of injunction, and are filed for the purpose of testing the action of the Board of Equalization in making the 12 per cent increase in assessed valuations, not only in Jefferson county, but in many counties of the State.

Armstrong sets forth in his petition that the board acted as a board of assessment and not as a board of equalization, assessing the various counties in the State to the aggregate increase of $60,000,000 $20,000,000 of which is charged to Jefferson county.

The difference in the suits of Armstrong and Hero is that the former refuses to pay the increase on real property and the latter on personal property.

The case will be held before Judge

Miller at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

The Wheat Crop.

The past week has been a busy one with the farmers throughout the entire county. In nearly every section wheat cutting has been in progress. In some sections nearly the entire crop is cut, while in other parts of the county there still remains some wheat standing. However, with good weather prevailing, all the wheat will be in the shock before the end of the present week.

The weather in this section has been fine for the work of harvesting and the crop this year will make a good yield. There have been better crops than the present one, but it is above the average and in some localities the yield is much better than last year.

The thrashing process will begin this week and all things point to a successful garnering.
